

Recycling and waste collections are changing later this year.

For most people in North Somerset, your black bin will be collected once every three weeks.

More information will be sent to all households before anything changes.

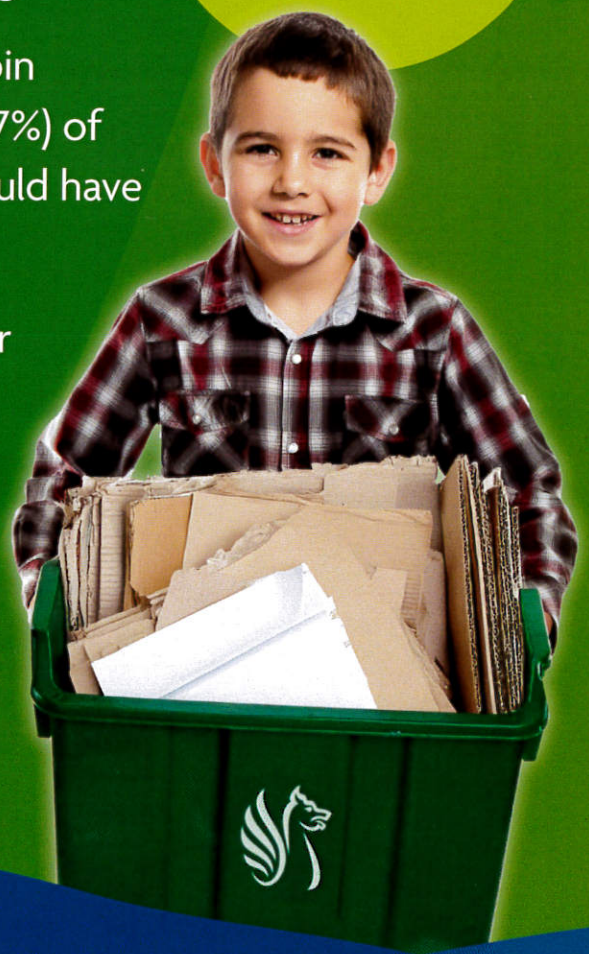

It costs £5 million a year to dispose of black bin rubbish in North Somerset. Over a quarter (27%) of the average black bin is food waste, which could have been recycled instead.

Recycling generates an income to help pay for vital local services.

Recycling, including food waste, will continue to be collected every week. If you're not yet recycling your food waste, order your containers now so you're ready for the changes.
